Introduction

Mountain biking and mountain biking facilities can bring an array of benefits to rural communities. They leverage communities' natural assets to create places that are attractive to visitors, businesses, and both new and current residents. Specific, documented benefits include health benefits for local users, increased tourism and economic development opportunities, and benefits to the local environment<sup>1,2</sup>.

Since 2018, West Virginia University Extension has been tracking the economic impacts of mountain biking activities across the state, specifically spending at trail events including races and festivals. This report describes the economic impact of several of these events from the 2022 season including Big Bear's Bike Bash, the Canaan Mountain Bike Festival, the WV Enduro Series, the WV Interscholastic Cycling League's (NICA) youth race series, and the 2022 UCI Mercedes-Benz Mountain Bike World Cup Downhill and Cross Country Races held at Snowshoe Resort.

Given the diffuse nature of trail riding, estimating rider spending can be challenging. These events provide an opportunity to collect useful data that helps quantify spending and the economic impact generated by riders in the state. The results from these analyses have been used to justify significant investment in trail infrastructure across West Virginia. We are grateful to the event and race series organizers and especially the riders who took the time to provide the data necessary to undertake this research. We hope that the results will continue to inform policy and trail investment decisions that allow WV communities to showcase their unique assets and benefit from the growing outdoor recreation economy.

2022 West Virginia Mountain Bike Festival and Event Survey Results

To better understand the preferences and spending patterns of mountain bikers in West Virginia, surveys were collected by West Virginia University faculty and event organizers. Surveys were collected online using the Qualtrics survey tool through a link sent from event organizers via email to event participants shortly following the event. Survey responses were received from the Canaan Mountain Bike Festival (41), Big Bear Bike Bash (151), Cacapon State Park Enduro Race (65), Valley Falls Enduro Race (15), Slatyfork Enduro Race (25), Snowshoe Enduro Race (29), Snowshoe UCI World Cup (321), and West Virginia Interscholastic Cycling League Race Series (98). Local events drew more than 2,500 participants; the World Cup event drew 6,000 attendees including 4,500 paying visitors. Surveys were collected from a total of 766 attendees (see Table 1).

Estimated Economic Contribution of Mountain Biking Activities in West Virginia

The economic impacts of the West Virginia mountain biking events are estimated using a state specific model generated using IMPLAN's modeling software<sup>3</sup>, an industry standard input-output model of the economy. Expenditures by riders generate direct spending in the local economy. This direct spending stimulates additional purchases and causes impacts along the supply chain. For example, increased demand for business inputs (utilities, office supplies, legal services) will result in additional rounds of purchases by local businesses (indirect impacts); employees will also make purchases (induced impacts). The combined direct, indirect, and induced impacts represent the total economic impact of these activities.

Traditionally, local spending is excluded when calculating economic impacts, as spending by locals likely serves as an alternative to other entertainment and recreation spending that would have occurred in the state/region. For this analysis, we include the spending by local visitors/riders. Therefore, the results represent the economic contribution of these events to the state's economy, or how much economic activity was associated with the events.

Average per rider spending estimates, total event spending estimates, and the economic contribution of the events are presented in the tables below:
